CALLS THE CHIEF
HE TO RESCUE POOR KITTY LAST NIGHT

The fire chief has many calls and to respond to many of them would take him out of his line of duty

Last night, after the fire department had settled itself snugly in bed and was softly treading the mazes of dreamland with Morpheus the telephone ran

My poor Kitty has climbed to the top of a high pole, a feminine voice explained, and can't come down because the pole is so slick and he because it is too high to jump I'm afraid the little thing will freeze to death if it stays up there all night Can't you come and get it down or send me one

The fire chief, who might have suggested that the husband do the rescue act, and that the alleviation of feline suffering does not come under the fire departments jurisdiction much said that there was no one present to do the job and that he could not leave

GOVERNOR PEAY LAUDS JACKSON

Praises Straightforward Methods of Great President in St Louis Speech

By The Associated Press

ST LOUIS Mo, Jan 10 The example Andrew Jackson set in politics with honesty and straightforward methods could well be followed today by public men with benefit to the country Governor Austin Peay of Tennessee, declared The Eve night, talking to the Jefferson club of St Louis

Let it be recorded that Jackson was a man who did things and in this generation of time servers and thinkers, that individual is becoming too rare, Governor Peay declared He breathed into our institutions a new and enduring vitality He smote his enemies with an unsparing hand No high station could have them He put his policies into everlasting effect

Each succeeding generation has recognized his debt unto him to his country He responded whenever it called him He is a dullard who does not lament the ignorance and indifference of our citizen hip to the matters of government which exists today The average citizen concerns himself too seldom with public affairs until some fraud and wrong is exposed

The new papers have a large responsibility in the education Compare the methods of the press of today with the new papers of a century ago one sensation reigns upon another until the headline doth our time, Scandal is in the forefront Some learned tale man may peal in congression one subject vitally affecting the country and he receives a mention

A THOUGHT

Let not him that eateth despise him which eateth not, and let not him which eateth not judge him that eateth for God hath received him.—Rom 14 3

SCHOOL TERMS IN BELL COUNTY

A number of Bell county schools are closing this month. Most of them began July and have run seven months, the maximum term for country schools. Other did not begin so early and have already let out, making no more than five or six months' term.

Such a condition is distressing. Yet there are plenty of Kentucky people who will oppose the $75,000,000 bond issue because they say the school system in the state is good enough for the present. At that conditions are greatly improved compared to what they were a few years ago before the good roads construction program began. Then two to four months was the average school term. It was necessary to have runs in the summer and early fall because roads were entirely impassible in the winter and spring, even if there had been funds for such a time.

The change has been obvious since the building of roads began. However this has only begun and unless the road is extended through the Straight Creek section to the county line and over the mountain to Tennessee and improved in other places we can not expect to see any further improvement in this line.

Whether the $75,000,000 bond issue proposed by Governor Fields to include highways, roads, schools and the other worthy causes in the state is better than a $50,000,000 bond issue with schools and institutions provided for by apportioned funds is a matter quite debatable at the present time. A three months session is called for Monday in Frankfort to discuss this matter.

Bell county people are looking on with deep interest at the outcome of this meeting, and of subsequent legislation they want schools and roads—the two go hand in hand—and they must have schools and roads to make any further progress.

KENTUCKY RICH IN POSTOFFICES

While Kentucky has 1,811 more postmasters than the State of New York, but only half the pay of the New York postmasters, it is shown by figures contained in the annual report of the Postmaster General for the fiscal year ending June 0, 1923, presented to Congress. At the same time the receipts of the New York postoffices are 16 1-2 times as great as those of Kentucky.

The Postmaster General's report for the last fiscal year shows that on June 30, 1923 there were 2,600 postoffices in Kentucky. Pennsylvania, done with 8,896, has a larger number. Next after Pennsylvania and Kentucky, come Virginia with 2,282, New York, with 2,267 and Texas with 2,254.

Despite the large number of postoffices Kentucky does not rank high with respect to rural mail routes. At the end of last June it had 802 rural mail routes, covering 21,881 miles. The cost of their operation for the year was $1,[illegible]75.0[illegible]. Illinois leads all states in this respect with 2,629 routes covering 70,876 miles.—Hazlehurst News.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL

A writer for The New York Tribune finds that 12,000,000 Americans own automobiles, and that 6,000,000 Americans pay taxes on incomes exceeding $1,000 a year.

"What is the answer? We pay income tax every year and we own no automobile. We can't afford one. Neither can a lot of our friends who pay income taxes. Hence not all the 6,000,000 income tax payers own automobiles. And more than 6,000,000 non payers of income tax do.

Upon what income it is possible to own an automobile depends upon where you live. Undoubtedly there are many Americans who, with less than $1,000 a year, do own automobiles. There are many farmers assuredly, who do not pay income tax because their net incomes are less than the taxable minimum, yet who drive automobiles. Moreover there are many tenant farmers and hired men on farms who own and drive automobiles. The pay of the farm hand in many instances is less than half of $1,000 a year.

Where there's a will there's always one way to own an automobile on a small income is to live where the cost of living and the cost of keeping an automobile is far less than it is in New York.

Editor Daily News: The unfortunate fact met several days with the girls, two sisters from school, where they should have been five minutes before. Would it be late to school. Yes, I reckon we will. What happens when we are late.

We are first scolded a minute, but its easier to scold late than it is to hustle.

Well you may get out earlier than we did when I was a girl. Every day we were invited into the office to have a personal interview with the superintendent that more of us ever cared to have repeated.

Mothers much to blame for the indifference of the children for lessons. Boys and girls. Children must be taught that the first duty of the day is to get to school. Mothers should have their children up that early, dressed, fed, and ready by the first approval, but not later.

It is feared that will be hard to overcome in later years. In the home would the employees that can not be depended upon to be at their post at the time are not promoted as are the punctual ones.

A new resolution for every pupil to make. I'll see to it that my children are all in school when the bell rings. Late arrivals at the school house call with mamma to put to work cleaning up the yard.

Some kids I know are fond of a cop,
Whenever he comes, they run
They think he's command around to stop
The fellers that's havin' fun
But I've found out he's a darn good scout,
As good as you could design,
And I feel sure when he's about
The cop is a friend of mine

He doesn't fuss at a little noise
When we're playin' 'round the street
And he's likely after the girls an' boys
That's livin' along his beat
He sees that the motor cars don't whiz
Too close to our football line
I'm tellin' you I'm a friend of his
And he is a friend of mine

If a kid behaves like he ought to do
If he has my sense of fair play
He'll know that the cop is a friend
that's true
He fellers that's big or small
He's one of the gang that's what he is,
If you treat him that way—he's fine,
And that's why I am a friend of his
And he is a friend of mine!

Every pumpkin pie that Deborah Bobbsie had ever made and every mince and apple and lemon pie that Miss Johnson had made and the extra big one that the Bakerman had made had mixed with all the cookies and cakes and ice cream and everything Edgar ever in the house that had built.

The Sandman and Dan and Snowball the Twins and Daddy Gander, not one of them did believe his eyes. For is truth I tell you it half an hour before the upstairs had been empty as a refrigerator on ice cold Sunday night.

Well as the Sandman said he'd get these people out and he met to get where he can put them to sleep properly. Whoever would have thought of any thing opening up that way and all the sand flyin' over here. And how Mother Mary Bobbsie and Mother Goose and Daddy Gander and Dan and Snowball the Twins would have to know that all here were at

Do you know that's what we're going to find out right off Daddy Gander

Now first we're to direct the Sandman to get his

Well Mother Goose doesn't come home before we get everything in the shell Daddy.

It was Nancy who had made her little birds feel tired and thirsty. So, Mister Sandman filled her

UNIFORM MARRIAGE-DIVORCE CODE! WOMEN CLUBS SEEK CORRECTION OF PRESENT CONFLICTING LAWS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1—Forty-one marriage laws—and no two alike.

Certain divorce laws which make children illegitimate, while legitimate in some states, illegitimate mothers and men and women lawfully married in some states, illegitimate in other.

This situation presents a problem which the women of the United States must see solved, says Miss Lida Hafford, director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who will have charge of the fight for a nationally uniform marriage and divorce code.

Senators and representatives agree that, really, this condition is intolerable. Miss Hafford adds. But politically, the right of the individual states to fix their own marriage and divorce laws must not be infringed, they contend, even though this state right results in a national wrong.

Our problem therefore, is to impress on congressmen the view that human rights are above state rights.

Present Marriage Laws

The need of uniform marriage and divorce laws may be understood from a study of the conflicting laws now in force. Take the laws governing marriage.

Seventeen states have no legal marriageable age.

In nine states the common law age of 12 for girls and 14 for boys is formally recognized and two states fix the marriageable age at 12 for girls and 14 for boys. In one state it is 13 for girls and 14 for boys while three states permit the marriage of girls of 10 without parental consent.

Twenty states prescribe no penalty for issuing a certificate of marriage to a minor below the specified age without parents' consent. In three states a marriage has been announced previously by banns. Only five states require both parties to apply in person for a license.

Eighteen states do not forbid marriage for feebleminded and 35 do not definitely forbid marriages between blacks and whites.

The Divorce Tangle

The conditions governing divorce are no less varied.

One state permits divorce on 11 grounds while one state does not permit divorce on any ground. Between these extremes the grounds for divorce range from three to 11. Requirements for legal residence are varied. In many states this is purely perfunctory.

The results of these laws present many ludicrous, many tragic pictures.

Innocent parties have been divorced when they have not even known that their husbands or wives were suing them. One state may set aside divorces secured elsewhere because of illegal residence or service claims. Persons thus divorced have married, thinking they were free to do so, and have had children by these second marriages only to find these children, by the annulment of the second marriage, illegitimate.

Enactment of a national uniform marriage and divorce law will do justice to all—rich or poor, young or old, male or female, comments Miss

Mrs. J. F. White (letter) Miss Lida Hafford leader in National Uniform Marriage and Divorce Movement

Hafford. And above all prohibit: 1—Marriages without a license for the children, she will. [illegible] which application must be made two weeks in advance, both parties to be present. Notice of application published in the General Federation of Women's Clubs and assistant attorneys general of parents, 16 for girls, 18 for boys of judgment. It will be unlawful to legal age without consent, 18 for girls, probably to secure support, 21 for boys.

3—Marriage of imbeciles, insane, feeble minded epileptics, paupers or persons afflicted with tuberculosis or venereal disease or relatives as close as first cousins forbidden.

4—Divorces only on grounds of adultery, cruel and inhuman treatment, failure to provide for one year, incurable insanity and commission by either party of infamous crime. No divorces where evidence exists that grounds have been provided by collusion.

5—Defendants in divorce proceedings must appear or be represented in court. A divorce granted in one state shall be recognized in all.

Youth

So often were inclined to share
Youth with our will, and make them share
In things for which they do not care,
Ignoring though they may demur,
The different choice their tastes prefer—
The hot resentment that we stir

Why halt the eager footsteps, lest
Time putting all words to the test
Shall prove the way they walk the best?
The untried pathway they may take
Their hands that cause our hearts to break
May mean the progress that they make

When we were young, we too aspired
To reach some goal—and we were fired
By what we—just ourselves—desired
A choice in either work or play
A chance in life to have our way
And now in turn—give Youth its day!

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

SAUERKRAUT DISHES

Many people enjoy a dinner of sauerkraut once in a while If the dish is cooked in the oven the unpleasant odor is somewhat curtailed

While raw cabbage is more easily digested and of greater food value than cooked cabbage, cabbage in any form is a wholesome, healthy food

These recipes may be a bit out of the ordinary and may help solve the eternal problem of what to eat

If weiners are not liked spare ribs can be substituted

Sauerkraut and Dumplings

Two pounds of kraut 8 weiners, 1 cup flour ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, milk to make a soft dough

Put kraut in a lightly covered kettle with water to cover Cook slowly for two hours, adding water as necessary Wash weiners and cut a tiny slice from each end Add to kraut and cook an hour longer Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder Cut in milk to make a soft dough Drop by teaspoonsful onto the kraut, cover tightly and cook 20 minutes Serve at once

This dish provides starch in the dumplings mineral salts in the kraut protein and fat in the meat and adds bulk to the meal A nourishing cream soup and a substantial dessert round out the menu Brown or entire wheat bread should be used

Sauerkraut and Potatoes

One pound kraut 4 potatoes, butter, salt and pepper, 1 cup cracker crumbs

Boil and mash potatoes Season with salt, pepper and butter Cook kraut for thirty minutes and drain Put a layer of kraut in a buttered baking dish Dot with bits of butter and cover with a layer of potatoes Continue alternating layers of kraut and potatoes until all is used There should be equal parts of kraut and potato Cover with cracker crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes

This is another method for preparing kraut with potatoes The potatoes rather alleviate the kraut flavor, making a really palatable dish

Kraut and Potatoes II

One tablespoon lard, 1 pint kraut, 2 cups seasoned mashed potatoes, buttered bread crumbs

Melt lard in a deep kettle, add kraut and cook for 30 minutes. Put kraut in a buttered baking dish, dot with butter and add a layer of seasoned mashed potatoes Continue layer for layer of kraut and potatoes until all is used Cover with buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven

Plain Cooked Kraut

One tablespoon butter or lard 1 quart sauerkraut, 1 cup vinegar, 1 pound pork, bacon, ham or sausage, water, flour.

Melt butter or lard in a kettle, add half the kraut, then the meat and cover with remaining kraut Add vinegar and about the same amount of water cover closely and cook slow 1½ to 2 hours Remove meat and salt in from one to two tablespoons flour Stir and cook half an hour longer Return meat to kettle to be sure it is very hot and serve

A few slices of onion are sometimes added to the kraut during the cooking

THE DOLLAR THAT HID A GOLD MINE

---A Modern Business Fable

THERE was a man who took a certain Sparkling Silver Dollar from his pocket each day and intently gazed upon it for one-half hour. A fortune teller had told him that success was certain to crown his efforts if he persisted in it.

In his eagerness for success, he began to spend more and more time concentrating upon the lucky Dollar, first an hour, then two, until finally he spent most of his day with his attention fixed upon this Dollar.

One day while he was gazing determinedly upon it, his path led him past a mountain that glittered in the sunshine. Thousands and thousands of dollars worth of pure gold lay there waiting to be discovered and to make the finder rich. But he passed on unaware of the existence of the gold mine, his attention still fixed upon the poor silver Dollar.

There is a gold mine of business for Middlesboro business men if they will but seek it outside the corporate limits of Middlesboro.

There is an area with a population five times as large as Middlesboro in which men and women easily come to Middlesboro to shop and return the same day.

Five times as many women's suits are bought, five times as many men have to be completely clothed, five times as many children go to school, five times as many breakfasts must be served.

But the business man who has his attention completely fixed upon the city market, like the man with the Dollar, has little time to devote to the "gold mine" suburban radius.

MEASLES CASES SPREADING HERE

Miss Marx Warns Parents Not to Send Children to School if Disease Is in Home

Practice of parents in sending children to school when there is measles in the family is causing rapid spread of the contagion, according to Miss Wilhelmine Marx, public health nurse.

Not only have many cases occurred where parents sent children to school under these circumstances, but, in some instances, children have been instructed to deny that there are measles in the home, she stated.

The malady has now spread over almost the entire city and the number of cases is being daily augmented by carelessness of persons who persist in going in public when they have measles in the home. Miss Marx said that five mothers who had measles in their home were present at a card party, recently, she understood.

A lot of the cases, it is said, are not promptly reported by physicians so that the houses may be quarantined in accordance with existing city health laws.

Miss Marx is of the opinion that the recent rapid spread of the disease is due to the holiday season when there were many social gatherings and when children, in large numbers, attended the shows.

Both the ordinary and the German, or red, measles are prevalent at present. There are a number of persons in Middlesboro who are seriously afflicted with the disease and two fatalities from this cause were reported yesterday from Rose Hill.
